WASHINGTON.

The Army Appropriation Bill--The Paris Exposition--Congressional--Debate on the Appropriations Bill--Patterson Habeas Corpus Case:

WASHINGTON, November 8.—HOUSE.—After the reading of the journal, the House went into Committee of the Whole, Cox in the chair, on the army appropriation bill.

The committees are idle this morning.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs will, at their meeting on Monday next, agree upon a bill for American representation at the Paris international exposition, and report it to the House on that day. An ample sum for that purpose will be proposed, though as yet the details have not been arranged. The committee will have all the facts before them, including views and recommendations, and estimates of the Department of State.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—HOUSE.—The bill to repeal the resumption act gave place to-day in the House to the appropriation bill for the support of the army, for the current year, and this bill gave rise to quite an aminated discussion. The bill appropriates on the basis of 22,000 men for the first four months of the year, and of 20,000 for the last eight months, and it provides that no recruiting shall take place to increase the army beyond its present strength. Opinions differ however as to what its present strength is. The Adjutant-General placing it at 22,000, General Sherman at 20,000 and other military authorities as low as 18,000.

The provisions of the bill were vigorously defended by the chairman of the appropriation committee, Atkins, of Tennessee, and by his colleagues on the committee, Blount, of Georgia, Singleton, of Mississippi and others. They were no less vigorously assailed on the democratic side of the House by all the Texas members and on the republican side by Foster, of Ohio, Conger, of Mississippi and Calkins, of Indiana.

The Texas members opposed the cutting down of the army on account of the position of affairs on the Rio Grande frontier; while on the Republican side the labor riots of last summer were used as an argument in favor of a strong standing army.

Blackburn, of Kentucky, declared such an idea as monstrous and anti-American, and moved to reduce the army to 15,000 men.

Banks, of Massachusetts, opposed the idea of increasing the army in order to repress labor disturbances, but favored an effective military establishment as true economy and wise legislation in the present dangerous situation of the American frontier. He would have 10,000 or 15,000 men stationed in Texas, but on condition that they should not cross the border, but protect life and property in the State.

No vote had been taken when the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The democratic caucus this afternoon nominated R. W. P. Harrison, formerly of Atlanta, Georgia.

The habeas corpus case of Senator Patterson was called to-day and continued to Nov. 21st.

Nominations: Sanford, of Florida, Minister to Belgium, Burwell, register to the land office at Baton Rouge, North, Postmaster at Brunswick, Georgia.

Messrs. Morey, Young and Thatcher have introduced levee bills, all of which have been referred to the levee committee.

Early action is expected.

SENATE.—Maxey's resolution calling for information regarding the jail delivery at Rio Grande City, by Mexicans passed.

The Vice-President by a resolution was authorized to fill the vacancies in the committees occasioned by Morton's death.

The Finance Committee of the Senate will consider the silver bill, which passed the House on Monday.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations have reported favorably on Welsh as minister to St. James.

FRANCE.

Parliament Still Engaged in Preliminary Work--Startling Rumors---Difficulty Between Grevy and Gambetta--Spirit of the Bonapartists.

LONDON, November 8.—A Paris correspondent to the Times, telegraphs that it was believed this morning that the ministers intended to obtain the passage of an order of day, expressing confidence in President MacMahon, but it afterwards became known that the Duke de Audifferett Pasquir, President of the Senate had told the Duke de Broglie that he would not permit discussion of an unconstitutional order of day, which would put forward the Marshal as a shield for ministers, and enable the Chamber of Deputies to retaliate by an order of day, directly aimed against the Marshal. The Cabinet did not endeavor to obtain the vote of confidence for itself from the Senate, as it was aware that such an attempt would be hopeless.

The Chamber of Deputies must verify elections of sufficient number of members to form a quorum before it can proceed to business. This preliminary work will not be completed until Monday.

VERSAILLES, November 8.—In the lobbies most alarming rumors were current.

It is said that the Bonapartists and Monarchists have resolved, if their elections are declared invalid by wholesale, to resign in a body, and thus furnish the Senate a legitimate pretext for fresh dissolution.

It is asserted with some appearance of truth that the ministry contemplates a second dissolution, and the declaration of a state of siege.

PARIS, November 8.—The Soliel and other Conservative journals discountenance any project of demanding a vote of confidence for the ministry.

In the Senate a committee of Deputies of the Right has been appointed to consider whether the minority shall withdraw in a body whenever the majority shall invalidate an official candidate's election.

LONDON, November 8.—A special dispatch from Paris to the Pall Mall Gazette says: The De Broglie cabinet will remain in office for the present.

The members of the Right in the Senate have abandoned the project for an interpellation.

It is understood that the Left Chamber of Deputies have resolved to invalidate the election of those Conservatives who were returned by small majorities.

Rumors are current of a difference between M. Grevy, President of the Chamber of Deputies, and M. Gambetta.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The Journal, Des Debats, says: Many of the Bonapartist and Royalist senators and deputies have arrived here animated with a spirit of resistance. They advise the Marshal to make no concession, nor even to dissolve the Chambers again. Their language leaves no hope of the triumph of moderate ideas.

A Brush at Kars--The Turks Worsted--Russian Loss Since the Commencement of the War

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A Russian official despatch dated at Kuruk Dara, Nov. 6, says that General Lazaroff yesterday occupied a position in front of the southeastern forts of Kars, for the purpose of erecting siege batteries, when the Turks attacked him, supported by a fire from the forts. The Russians beat them back in disorder and pursued them into the fort. Hafiz Pasha, at the point of the bayonet, inflicted great losses to the enemy, spiked their guns, captured ten officers and forty men, and then retired with a small loss.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 8.—An official return places the Russian loss from the commencement of hostilities to the first instant at 64,801 men.

Liverpool Races.

LONDON, November 8.—The Race for the Liverpool cup at the Liverpool autumn meeting was won by Arbitrator. Advance second and Footsteps third.

Race for the Liverpool Cup.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The race for the Liverpool cup at the Liverpool autumn meeting to-day was won by Arbitrator. Advance second, Footstep third.

Another Heavy Failure.

MONTREAL, Nov. 8.—The Hardware house of Baker & Mulholland placed in liquidation, liabilities at about 400,000 dollars, asset larger.

THE ELECTIONS.

Pennsylvania Certainly Democratic--New York Legislature Republican.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 8.—The latest advices indicate a Democratic majority of 8,000 in the State.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Times will publish to-morrow morning a list of the members elected to the Legislature, which makes it stand as follows:

Senate, 20 Republicans to 12 Democrats; General Assembly, 68 Republicans to 59 Democrats; 1 labor reformer. The Republican majority on joint ballot is 16.

The Sun says that the Republicans will have a majority in the Senate. In the General Assembly the indications are that the Democrats will have a slim majority, though the Republicans claim it. It will require a complete vote in some of the close rural districts to determine anything definite.

The majority for Beach in the State will be about 15,000, though it may fall below these figures. Beach runs several thousand behind his ticket.

The World makes the State Senate probably Republican by two majority. The Assembly is in doubt, but counting the one Greenback man from Chemung as a Democrat, it is probably 68 Democrats to 60 Republicans.

The Herald figures as follows: Senate—Republican, 19; Democrats, 13; Assembly—Republican, 67; Democrats, 60; Labor and Greenback, 1.

The Tribune says, the Senate is safely Republican, but that the Assembly is in doubt. Its figures are, Senate—Republicans, 18; Democrats, 13; Independent, 1. Assembly—Democrats, 63; Republicans, 64; Greenback, (Democrat), 1. John Morrissey is the Independent.

Heavy Failure in Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 8.—Corydon Weed, of Bloomington, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of one million eight hundred thousand dollars and scarcely any assets. Mr. Weed has been loaning money for other parties on Illinois farm mortgages guaranteeing the interest and principal of the loans. The securities having been sunk to nothing he is left between the real creditors and the insolvent debtors. Among his creditors are the Ætna Life Insurance Company of Hartford, $270,000, I. Attinger, of Waterloo, N. Y., $190,000, Hiram Sibley, of Rochester, N. Y., $268,000, Henry Ideson, of N. Y. city, $58,000, J. B. Johnson, of Seneca Falls, N. Y., $54,000, W. R. Bain, of N. Y. city, $58,000 and others for smaller amounts.

Cigar Makers' Strike in New Orleans and in New York.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—The striking cigar makers, numbering about nine hundred, held a meeting last night and passed resolutions demanding an increase of from $2.00 to $4.00 per thousand. A committee of fifty was appointed to induce all the workmen to join the strike.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The striking cigar makers are greatly excited by the report that their former employes are about employing Chinese workmen. Threats of violence are made against the Mongolians. One firm has already sent to San Francisco for 300 Chinamen. This new policy of the manufacturers has caused much alarm and some wavering among the strikers.

A Grunt Among the Porkers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—It is stated that the grocery houses of Cincinnati, St. Louis and Pittsburg have resolved to transfer their trade from this city to New Orleans, unless the jobbers here withdrew from the decision they had made not to send their goods through a certain shipping firm here as desired by the above mentioned outside dealers. A committee from the Philadelphia trade came here yesterday and gained their point in this matter.

Another Defalcation.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 8.—A defalcation of fifteen to twenty thousand dollars discovered in the accounts of Walter F. Bartelt, receiver of taxes. Bartlett was also proprietor of the American hotel. He was arrested privately last evening and after fruitless efforts to obtain security was committed to jail.

Probabilities.

For the Middle Atlantic, South Atlantic States and the lower lake region cloudy and rainy weather, warm southerly veering to colder north-west winds, falling barometer followed by rising barometer and clearing weather.

Death of a Prize-fighter.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 8.—Weeden, the prize-fighter, who killed Walker in a prize-fight, and was sentenced to 10 years in the State's prison, is dead.

WINE MAKING IN HALIFAX COUNTY.

Lecture of Judge Watts, &c.

HALIFAX, Nov. 7th, 1877.

Now that agriculture has taken an upward start and new interests are taking the place of politics, we ought to look for new resources, to better develop our latest agricultural interests. There is one interest that has probably been better developed in Halifax county than any section of the state. I speak of grapes and wine making. A visit to the vineyards of Messrs. C. W. Garrett, & Co., of Ringwood, is really a treat.

About forty years ago, Sydney Weller planted a small vineyard of scuppernong grapes, at Ringwood. He made a small quantity of wine and undoubtedly many of the readers of the NEWS will remember Weller's scuppernong wine.

In 1868, Messrs. C. W. Garrett & Co. purchased the Weller Vineyard. For a time they made two housand gallons of wine a year.

But believing the people would appreciate a good home-made wine, they concluded to go into the business of wine making on an extensive scale, and commenced putting out more vineyards, until they have in grapes, consisting principally of the white scuppernong, with the black scuppernong, Mish and Concord grapes.

Last year they made forty-five thousand gallons, which is an increase of forty-three thousand gallons in seven years. The people of the South, not being a wine drinking community, prefer the sweet wine, while those accustomed to wine prefer the dry, or unsweetened wine. The dry wine can be made for about one-half the price of sweet wine. Beside the sweet and dry wine. They also manufacture imperial champaign, and sparkling burgundy, which if it were not for the prejudice of native production would be equal to foreign importations. Messrs. C. W. Garrett & Co., have made their business a success, and are now beginning to reap the benefits of their capital and industry.

This is court week, Judge McKoy presiding. Although the inferior court has been established, it has not been organized long enough to relieve the general court docket. Judge McKoy is retaining his prestige as a well qualified Judge, and gives universal satisfaction in his rulings, dispatching business with promptness and energy. People have not come to court in as large numbers as usual on account of the lateness of the season; they are busy with their crops.

Last night Judge Watts delivered a lecture on Entomology, which was very interesting, and full of wit and humor. He kept the audience in a laugh most of the time. He commenced by saying he did not know of a man who had as fully investigated the subject of entomology as himself. In the course of his lecture, he gave the history and habits of many different insects, especially those that prey upon our vegetable farm products, and pester our houses. He also gave the statistics of the millions of dollars lost by insects, caterpillars, grasshoppers, &c., that destroy our crops. He also exhibited several different insects in all stages—from the egg to the fully-developed beetle and butterfly. The Judge claims he has discovered a remedy that will effectually destroy all kinds of bugs, insects and worms. It is not a poison but an electric fluid, that kills the instant it touches them. If Judge Watts' discovery does what he says it will, and what those who have tried it says it will, it is the greatest discovery of the age. The next time Judge Watts comes to Raleigh, get him to deliver his lecture. You will laugh more than you ever did before. He can beat Sol. Smith Russell.

Crops in this section are about on the average. Cotton from two-thirds to a three-fourths crop. Corn good. Apples with us was almost a failure.

Yours, &c,

HALIFAX.

WITH THE RUSSIANS.

Sketches in the Imperial Camp.

(Special Correspondence of the Philadelphia Times.)

IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS,
GORNY STUDEN, October 3.

I have just learned that a courier sent by me to Bucharest with some letters the last month is whittling a stick in the military prison at Kicheneff, having been arrested as a spy on his way to Bucharest. The scrap of paper covered with an impossible chirography, which served as a pass, was lost somewhere on the road, and the poor fellow had nothing to identify him but the letters he carried, and these were held as a proof of his guilt. Suspicious were piled high upon him and he was hustled away with a crowd of others to Kicheneff. There is a ludicrous mixture of innocence and suspicion in the Russian composition. I have known a man passing the outposts near Rustchuk with no other proof of his Russian sympathies than a white linen cap he wore, and actually made his way through the whole army and came back to Bucharest unhindered. At another time it is impossible to get past the guard of a hospital camp. It all depends whether you can speak a little Russian and can imitate to the satisfaction of the private soldier the ways and appearance of a sub-officer. The private soldier will salute nine cases out of ten everyone he sees well dressed, and with a military cap, and this is excusable in him because there exists in the Russian army nothing like a stringent regulation as to the uniform of the officers, and especially in summer their dress is somewhat fantastic. The equipments they carry depend on the personal taste of the wearer; some have bags and pouches hung about them, and others have nothing but a sword-belt on the shoulders. The same gypsey-like character which I have spoken of before as marking their transport and their cavalry is echoed through the whole army, even to the highest in command. No regulation tent, no restriction as to the amount of baggage an officer may carry, no restriction as to the number of carts he may have in the train. Of course this is the source of untold difficulties. Most officers, even those of the line, carry about baggage enough for a season at Saratoga. Lieutenants have ox-carts laden with their effects. Imagine the result. When a detachment moves there is a train of carts a dozen times as long as he line of soldiers in the road, all laden with officer's traps. These hustle and struggle along the narrow paths, blocking up the way, interferring decidedly with the movement of troops and making the advance a slow and tedious proceeding.

RUSSIAN IMPEDIMENTA.

I have seen a retreat under the same conditions, and a greater confusion cannot be conceived. The roads all over the country for miles were filled with trains of shaky, creaking carts, moving at perhaps two miles an hour—even less. Soldiers had to break their way through the woods and across fields of ripe grain to make any advance whatever. Of course much was lost and the Turks were made happy thereby. In every well disciplined army there is a severe restriction on the amount of baggage, and for the very good reason that a single broken-down cart may cause a fatal delay in movements of troops. The Russian Government pays five roubles a day for the hire of miserable carts, with skeletons of horses, which carry up bread to the soldiers. The poor beasts stagger along the road at a snail's pace; they devour quite as much forage as good horses do and carry perhaps one-quarter the load of a four-horse team. This is supposed to be economy. Thousands of Wallachian ox-teams bring up materials and stores. The carts are built without an ounce of iron; the wheels are nearer octagonal than round; the oxen are thin and weak and die by the hundreds on the roads; the drivers are half naked, lazy Wallachians, who have never heard of time, and the trains are, to an item, exactly the same as Trajan used in old Dacia felix, not excepting the costume of the drivers.

It is by such rude and unwieldy machinery that the Russian army expects to make a rapid conquest—I should have said has expected, for everyone has given up the idea of passing the Balkans this year, and there are great preparations for the winter campaign. A railway is building from Fratesti to Simnitza, another is about to be begun from this place, Gorny Studen, to Tirnova, over the country like a horse-railroad without any grades. The Fratesti Simnitza railway was to be done in forty-two days. Forty days are past and there is still scarcely a sign of the construction, and it is possible that it will not be completed this year. Meantime the teams with timber for the new bridge at Petrosani pass four days in coming from Fratesti, a distance of about thirty miles, and a whole week is used up in carrying a load of shells from the railway to Simnitza. The new bridge between Petrosani and Batin, which will shorten the distance to Tirnova by a day's journey, has been under way about a month now and is half across the southern branch beyond the island. Why they should have begun to build on the branch farthest from their base I cannot imagine. It seems to me very much like building the roof of a house first, for all the timber and planks have to be carried by boats to the island and then carted across to the bridge. It would have been a very natural way of building a bridge to begin with the end nearest the main land. However, the construction goes on rapidly—by rapidly I mean as the word is understood here. A few weeks' delay is nothing. The word in the Russian language which is used most frequently means "directly" or "in a moment," and never was there a combination of letters of such elasticity of signification. Sichas may mean one hour or one day, a week or a year, it is all the same to them Everything will be done sichas.

THE CAUSES OF THE FAILURE.

If we look for the causes of the Russian failure—since we may reasonably call the present campaign a failure—we may find two very powerful causes, which at first sight may seem too homely and common place to be of any weight, but which really have more to do with the failure than other more high-sounding elements in the scheme. One is their habit of continually saying and being contented with "in a moment," and the other is the habit of taking breakfast at 11 in the forenoon. The man who gets up at daybreak and has a hearty meal is good for all day; those who follow in the field the programme of French society, which turns night into day and makes an 11-o'clock breakfast a necessity, are so much the less soldiers. The staff officers all indulge in this same habit, and, although it may seem trivial, it is, to my mind, a most cogent reason why they never are on hand when there is need of them. Nothing can be done until after breakfast, and then the day is half gone. The soldiers who are recognized the world over as the best in the field eat heartily and well, and they do a great deal of work. Let us charitably refrain from further discussion of the staff officer.

Gorny Studen is anything but an agreeable place of sojourn, and preparations are going on to remove the headquarters to Sistova. Another son of the Emperor, Paul Alexandrovitch, has just arrived. He is a tall, well-built young fellow, not very much like his brothers in feature, but with the same superabundant health and strength.

Gas in London.

[New York Sun.]

The oldest London gas company was chartered in 1810. Since then it has absorbed six others, and in 1876 consumed 1,000,000 tons of coal, or nearly two-thirds of that used by all the other companies. The total amount of capital of the metropolitan companies at the close of 1876 was over $56,000,000, with authority to raise $20,000,000 more. The net profit on this last year was $4,275,000. In the last eight years gas in London has, notwithstanding the rise in coal, become cheaper by nearly eleven cents per 1,000 feet. The volume of gas sold in 1869 was 9,885,857,000 cubic feet, whereas now it is very nearly half as much again. This increase is out of all proportion to the increase in population, and can only be accounted for by the prejudice against the use of gas in sitting and bedrooms having gradually abated. Gas is, even now, scarcely ever seen in the reception-rooms of houses of the highest class in London, and a gas lit ball-room in a private house would be regarded with horror.

Raleigh Editors.

(Petersburg Index-Appeal.

We knew some fellows at Raleigh, N. C., who will sit up all night to get the election returns by telegraph from all the States, and will write a long editorial on the subject, no matter at what hour of the morning the news may be received. We admire the professional energy of these gentlemen, but do not see the necessity of such self-sacrificing devotion. In fact, we have been recently very much alarmed by observing how many of the brightest men of the country have been stricken down prematurely by excess of labor, excitement and loss of rest.

When a man returns home at night and kisses his wife with more than ordinary tenderness she may be pretty certain that he has been in mischief.—Joaquin Miller.

THE NEGRO IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Cheering Words from a Colored Writer.

[Raleigh Correspondence of the Washington "People's Advocate," the National organ of the colored race.]

Although the cry goes up from many parts of the South that the Negro is making no headway, and that in some States he is actually on the retrograde, we are fully prepared to state most positively that no such assertion can be truthfully affirmed of his situation here in North Carolina. On the contrary, the colored people here are making very satisfactory progress, and we are inclined to think that if they will but let politics and politicians severely alone for the next several years, and devote themselves exclusively to their educational and material interests, they will be able to demonstrate to the world that the negro is a success, and that he has within him the capacity for developing into the intellectual and social peer of his more favored white brothers. The more urgent need of our people at this time, here and throughout the South, is education—not such education as Oberlin College and Howard University dispense to our young men—but such as can be obtained in the common and high schools, which will qualify them for intelligent action in the ordinary pursuits of life. The average colored man is honest, industrious and well meaning. He endeavors to make every edge cut that will, and aspires, if not to wealth, at least to a competency in life; but, his progress in this direction, is seriously impeded, if not wholly neutralized, by ignorance. His mind has never been cultivated and strengthened by education and hence he is deficient in judgment and unable to take intelligent advantage of his opportunities. He cannot read, and therefore he is dependent on others for his knowledge. He knows nothing of what is transpiring in the great industrial world around him, while the consciousness of his dependence renders him timid, credulous, open to imposture, and represses much of his energy and manhood. The five fundamental operations of arithmetic are insolvable enigmas to him. He cannot calculate figures; he cannot keep his account, consequently he is a facile victim in the hands of cheats and swindlers. Give him a good common school education, and then place in his hands the hoe, the trowel, the jack-plane, or any other implement, and through the combined exertion of his brain and muscle, he will achieve a creditable success.

The outlook for the negro in this State is brighter to-day than it has been at any previous time. With the advent of Democracy into power he was prepared to believe that he would not only lose the educational privileges which he enjoyed, but that he would be shorn of his citizenship, and reduced to a condition of vassalage. His fears have been expelled, however, through the unexpected policy inaugurated by this party of terrors. The whites, far from giving evidence of any design against his liberties, evince an earnest desire to promote his welfare and elevate him to a higher plane of citizenship. Gov. Vance had scarcely filled the chair of Chief Executive four months before he invited a conference of the leading colored men of the State to determine through them the most advantageous point for locating a Normal School for the training of colored teachers. Through his influence the Legislature which had just adjourned appropriated $2,500 per annum, for two years, to maintain such a school; and, in the conference the Governor broadly intimated that he would seek to have the appropriation increased by the next Legislature. We therefore have a normal school in successful operation, conducted by a colored principal, assisted by colored associate teachers. This school is situated in Fayetteville, and we doubt not but that in a few years similar schools will be established at other eligible points in the State.

The whites seem to realize forcibly the important truth that their interests are inseparately interwoven with those of the blacks, and that the education and advancement of the latter are conditions upon whith their own prosperity depends. When once this wise and generous view obtains throughout the South race prejudice will gradually disappear, the color line will be obliterated, and the Southern people will enter upon a new and brighter era. The impression has gone out that North Carolina is immovably indifferent on the subject of education. Such certainly is not a fact. The press, the State administration and the people, are thoroughly aroused, and are heartily co-operating for the promotion of this important interest. On the 7th of last May, the people of this city and township were called upon to vote for a proposition to levy a special tax for graded school purposes. The proposition was carried almost unanimously, and last month two graded schools, one for the whites and one for our own people, were opened for a ten months' session. Four white and four colored teachers are employed in the colored school, all of whom rank first-class in their profession. I append their names —Misses E. P. Hayes, Anna M. Day, Louise S. Dorr and Flora W. Richards, white; Messrs. W. R. Harris, B. B. Goins, Misses Kittie Ligon and Ida Ransom, colored.

The colored teachers of this county have organized a Teachers' Institute. At a meeting, held last Saturday, a constitution was adopted, and the following officers were elected for the year: President, W. R. Harris; vice-president, Miss Kittie M. Bishop; corresponding secretary, B. B. Goins; recording secretary, Miss Jane E. Thomas; treasurer, Miss Kittie Ligon; marshal, B. J. Edwards.

This Institute, the first of the kind in this State, has the hearty support of the city press and all classes of citizens, and it will, no doubt, prove a powerful agency in the promotion of the educational interests of the colored people. The aims and plans of this Institute I will set forth in another communication, with the hope that teachers of other States will inaugurate similar movements.

The Agricultural Society.

(Hillsboro Recorder.)

During the continuance of the State Fair, well attended meetings of this Society were held each evening, and the nature of the transactions and the interest manifested therein were the best commentary upon the estimation in which the society is held by the representative farmers of the State. The attendance of these was large, and though participating but scantily in the discussions that arose, they were by no means backward in their manifestations of satisfaction. In the evident progress of Agricultural revolution, the intelligent farmer is prompt to admit the agency of an intelligent exponent of his views and purposes. It is a recognition of the power of associated effort to accomplish great objects, and of the need of leadership to guide that effort. This is efficiently found in an organization whose business it is first to collect, then to diffuse information. The most appreciable instrumentality for these objects has been found in the working of the State Fair; defective, during a portion of its existence, in failing to seize upon the vital idea of its creation; catering for the time to unworthy requisitions, yielding to temporary considerations of gain to be drawn from concessions to frivolous or depraved tastes; jeopardizing its usefulness or its duration by departure from a rigid line of duty; now, at last, asserting its true prerogatives, and embarking steadfastly upon its mission of industrial regeneration.

But the errors indulged in during the past proved well nigh fatal to its life. A cloud hung over its financial character. A certain suspicion darkened its reputation for strict justice and impartiality; and the moral sense of many was offended by a too free toleration to amusements of doubtful propriety; all combined to fasten discredit upon the State Fair and to bring bankruptcy upon it. There was unfaltering courage in the Agricultural Society. But courage, without the substantial resources of money, was of little avail to set back the tide of disaster. Much is due to the personal efforts of Col. Thomas M. Holt, President of the Society, who was conspicuous in his exertions, individually became responsible for a large outstanding debt, relieved the Fair from its most pressing obligations, entered upon a thorough work of reformation, and in conjunction with his able coadjutors, adopted the system which purged the exhibition of its objectionable features, restored public confidence, made the last Fair brilliant in its success and satisfactory in its conduct, and established it upon a basis that may seem to ensure its permanence.

And this permanence is not its duration as a mere place of annual amusement. The Fair has risen to its real dignity as an Agricultural and Mechanical exposition, where the good that has been done will be seen and compared, and where the good that is yet to be done may be suggested or directed.

The man who was unanimously and against his wishes, crowned for the third time with the highest honors of the Society, received a distinction earned by practical conflict with the sternest subjects of human trial. Col. Holt has experienced as much as any man the value of that training which has compelled him into sympathy with the working man; and as manufacturer and farmer, successful in these as in other avocations, owes nothing to theory, nothing to the accidents of fortune, but all to hard work, good sense, and pure integrity.

Perhaps, when political service or political training ceases to be the sole requisite for office, then such men as he may be taken up as the people's chosen representatives for the highest honors in their gift.

Mr. Tilden's Status in the Democratic Party.

[Washington Correspondent N. Y. Herald.]

The death of Senator Morton has caused some discussion here in democratic circles as to his successor, in the course of which the supposed wishes of Mr. Tilden about the Indiana Senatorship occassionally crop out. In this way it has become evident that he has really almost no friends in the democratic party here. The idea that he entertains hopes of a nomination in 1880 is received with a smile, and he proves to possess no hold, so far as can be seen, on any part of the democratic party. The Bourbons, or extremists, say that his indecision and dilatoriness are to blame that the republicans were able to carry Mr. Hayes into the White House. They say that his policy was all right, but that by the time he had made up his mind to it it was too late to carry it out; that, for instance, if he had opposed the Electoral Commission in the beginning it would have been defeated; but that when he decided that it ought to be opposed it was too late.

Another large class of democrats complain that he manifested a propensity to interferfere in many matters which ought to be left to the general councils of the party; that he was at the same time dilatory and dictatorial, and that he seemed to imagine that wisdom began and ended with him. It is added that his habit of choosing his advisers and favorites from the other party, and showing more confidence in and devotion to new converts than to consistent democrats, is a blunder, especially as the kind of men he thus selects have not approved themselves real democrats, but rather belong to a class of impracticable and fanciful politicians, bent on carrying out their own theories rather than devoted to the old fashioned democratic principles and policies. It may be said, in short, that while it is generally conceded that Mr. Tilden would in some respects have made a good President, his characteristic traits of indecision, dogmatism and others have left a bad taste in the mouths of the democrats in Congress. They will never trust their fortunes to him again; nor is it certain that he will ever be permitted to have much influence in democratic councils. The general expression is that he has had his chance and ought now to rest in quiet, and that any movements for making him again a Presidential candidate are absurd.

Reform in Granville.

(Oxford Torchlight.)

The people of Granville will not soon forget Judge McKoy. He has endeared himself to all honest, lawabiding citizens of our Radical ridden county in ordering the jurors to be paid cash for their services and mileage—dollar for dollar. There was no shaving by ring about that. Not 40 cents in the dollar given for tickets. Such proceedings is like returning to the good old times before Granville's fair escutcheon was soiled and polluted by the foul stain of Radicalism. For this one noble act will not our people thank his Honor? We know they will.

A Flying Four-Footer.

Somewhere down in the wilds of Jersey—if Jersey has any wilds these present Centennial days—one McDaniels dwells, in all the patriarchal comfort and dignity which attach to the English Lord of the Manor. He has a park, a stately mansion, groves of timber, and above all, the most famous racing stables in America. These royal establishments contain some of the finest and fastest horses in the world. Among them is Harry Bassett, a monarch of the turf, who some time ago met with an accident to one of his slender and priceless limbs. Without wasting a moment in doubtful experiments, Mr. McDaniels applied some of Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia, and in a half a day the horse was as sound as the proverbial silver dollar. No wonder McDaniels tells Dr. Giles to send skeptics to interview himself and his horse in Jersey. Pescud, Lee & Co., Agents, Raleigh, N. C.

The Richmond (Va.) Enquirer says: "The increase in our State military force will be the best guarantee to the capitalist and the immigrant that he will be protected from discord, and that the majesty of the law will be maintained."

The Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer believes that Mr. Tilden will be too old in 1880, and it says: "The Democrats have no prizes to offer to those who have been beaten in previous races in the coming contest for the Presidency in 1880. The party will be most apt to select its leader from the West, and a Southerner to be second on the ticket."

About two years ago a person giving his name as George A. Ray settled in Marion county, Fla. He led a quiet and retired life and was at peace with all his neighbors. One day last week he died and his remains were interred in the cemetery at Ocala. A few days previous to his death, however, he communicated to a Mr. Owens the information that his real name was Campbell, and that he was from St. Louis. He stated, furthermore, that he held a position under the United States Government as whiskey inspector and gauger, and that he fled from St. Louis and changed his name in order that his testimony might not be used against General Babcock and others implicated in the whiskey-ring frauds. It is understood that the papers left by Mr. Ray (or Mr. Campbell) fully corroborated the statements made to Mr. Owens.

The Newbern Nutshell says: Core Sound oysters, which have heretofore been considered rather inferior in quality compared with other oysters brought to this market, are the finest, as regards flavor and fatness, that now come here.

Roanoke News:—The Richmond Fair last week was a tremendous success. Not less than 25,000 were on the ground Thursday. The halls were so much crowded that we did not go through them; but the machinery and live stock exhibit was the finest we have ever had the pleasure of seeing.

Salem Press: Last Saturday afternoon, Revenue office McCormick, of Greensboro, with assistance, entered a house near the depot and found in the cellar some 26 barrels of liquor without stamps, a lot of empty ones and a barrel or two of vinegar. The whole was seized and conveyed to the store-house, for safe keeping, until further action is taken in the matter. There are numerous rumors afloat relative to the seizure, owner, &c., but all are mere suppositions, and we could not arrive at anything more definite.

Roanoke News: We regret to chronicle the death of John Summerell, Esq., of Northampton county which occurred on Friday night last. Mr. Summerell was in the fullest degre a good and useful citizen and the country can ill afford to lose such a man. He was, perhaps, at the time of his death, the oldest man in Northampton county.

Alamance Gleaner: Last Saturday evening Mr. Samuel Turner of the Hawfields neighborhood in this county went to the woods to cut and split wood. Night came and he did not return, and upon search being made he was found dead where he had gone to work. Coroner Long was notified, and a jury of inquest was summoned and empanneled. The verdict was that death resulted from natural causes. Mr. Turner was about seventy years old, and had been in usual health. He was a batchelor. He had a brother named James, who went to Tennessee, and ten years ago he too went to the woods to chop wood and was found dead by the hauler where he had been at work.

Wilmington Star: A correspondent at Shallotte, Brunswick county, informs us of a rather remarkable incident that happened at that place on the night of the 3rd inst., which resulted in some loss to Mr. Thomas Lewis. He says that a certain party who makes spirit barrels for Mr. Lewis, after drinking rather too much of another certain party's Schiedam Schnapps, turned in for a nap and dreamed that he was coopering, and that the barrel he was at work on needed steaming, whereupon he gathered together his clothes and bedding and set fire to them. Finally, when nearly suffocated, he aroused from his heavy slumber, seized his burning coat and left the house, which was entirely destroyed. Had the wind been blowing Mr. Lewis' loss might have been serious, as the building which was burned was about central between the store and still and a large lot of oak staves, but the calmness of the night saved him from further damage, his loss being only about $40.

THE PUBLICATION OF COUNTY EXHIBITS--HOW ABOUT IT?

"We notice in different State papers, statements of the finances of several counties—expenditures, &c., &c. And if we mistake not the law requires such statements to be annually published for the information and benefit of the taxpayers.

Let us not be understood as asking this publication for the benefit of the HERALD; for we have no space to spare for it; but we would like to know, if there is any law bearing upon the matter, why are our county authorities thus silent. Not even insinuating that there is anything wrong—for we know our commissioners and other officials too well to hint at or harbor such a suspicion—we merely allude to the matter because we know the people would like to have the information suggested."—Pee Dee Herald.

To reach a clear understanding of the law on this subject it is necessary to recall the legislation of recent years affecting the subject. Chapter 20, section 13, of the laws of 1868 (Battle's Revisal, chapter 27, section 13,) enacted the following:

"The Board (of County Commissioners) shall cause to be posted at the court house, and to be published in one or more county newspapers, if there be any, within five days after each regular September meeting and for at least four successive weeks, the name of every individual claimed and the amount allowed; and also, at the same time, a full statement of county revenue and charges, showing by items the income from every source, and the disbursements on every account for the past year, together with the permanent debt of the county, if any, when contracted and the interest paid or remaining unpaid thereon."

This section was amended by the laws of 1873-'74, chapter 134, which struck out "and" between "court house" and "to" in the second line and inserted "or," thus leaving it optional with the Board to post the exhibit at the court house or publish it in the newspapers. This section was further amended at the same session so as to make it read as follows:

"The Board shall cause to be posted at the court house and at the most public place in each township in the county, and also, if they think proper, shall cause to be published in one or more county newspapers, if there be any, within five days after the regular September meeting for at least four successive weeks, the name of every individual whose account shall be audited by them, the account claimed and the amount allowed; and also at the same time a full statement of county revenue and charges, showing by items the income from every source and the disbursements on every account for the past year, together with the permanent debt of the county, if any, when contracted, and the interest paid or remaining unpaid thereon."

The last act on this subject is chap. 264, Laws of 1876-'77, ratified March 12, 1877, which reads as follows:

SECTION 1. The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact, That chapter twenty-seven, section thirteen of Battle's Revisal be amended as follows: Strike out the following words in line two of said section, to-wit: "And to be published in one or more county newspapers if there be any."

SEC. 2. That the following be added to the end of said section: The said board may, in their discretion, also publish the said county exhibit in some newspaper circulated in said county.

SEC. 3. That chapter 143, acts of 1873-'74, ratified the 16th day of February, 1874, is hereby repealed.

These various amendatory or repealing acts leave chapter 27, section 13, Battle's Revisal, to read as follows:

The board shall cause to be posted at the court house and at the most public place in each township in the county, within five days after the regular September meeting for at least four successive weeks, the name of every individual whose account shall be audited by them, the account claimed and the amount allowed, and also at the same time a full statement of county revenue and charges, showing by items the income from every source, and the disbursements on every account for the past year, together with the permanent debt of the county, if any, when contracted, and the interest paid or remaining unpaid thereon. The said board may in their discretion also publish the said county exhibit in some newspaper circulated in said county.

This, then, is the law. It is excellent, in every respect; and should be strictly complied with. The board of county commissioners should use their discretion, and regularly publish the statements in the newspapers. The tax-payers are entitled to the information. It enables them to see exactly how their money goes, and to be more accurate and intelligent in their criticisms on the management of their county affairs. To withhold these exhibits in order to save the small expense which would attend their publication, is false economy.

THE United States Senate now stands, since the appointment of Mr. Voorhees, Republicans 38, Democrats 34, Independent 1 (Judge David Davis). The seating of Judge Spofford, Mr. Eustis and General M. C. Butler would leave the Republicans but one majority. With Judge Davis voting with the Democrats there would be a tie.

No extreme partisan course can be pursued by the Senate. The country is safe. With the help of the Democrats, Judge Davis and either Senator Matthews or Senator Christiancy or any other administration Senator, the President can defy the Blaine-Conkling wing of his party, and carry out his policy to a successful issue.

IF any community wants a post office or postal route established, let it forward at once an application to its representative in Congress. With Mr. Waddell at the head of the Postal committee, North Carolina's wants in this respect will be supplied as fast as made known.

A LIVE MULDOON.

A Wild Man Discovered in the Forests of Nebraska.

Surely this is an age of wonders. Two Muldoons discovered within the past sixty days, and now the Fremont (Nebraska) Tribune comes to us with a column article giving the details of the discovery of a wild man in that vicinity. Two young men were out hunting water fowls when they came upon the strange being. He was just emerging from a clump of trees and underbrush when they caught a glimpse of him. He was dressed in the most primitive style, consisting of a woolen shirt He had a stick in his hand, which he swung around his head as if striking at something he saw in the air, and uttering the while a sharp, unearthly noise. Like a wild animal, he was constantly on a sharp lookout, nervously looking this way and that as his ear detected the least unusual noise, or his eye noticed the shaking of a reed or anything that was the least extraordinary. After a few moments he squatted on his haunches under a tree and began to dig in the ground with his hands and the stick, and occasionally carrying something to his mouth which he seemed to be eating. The boys became more interested in the strange being than in the object of their hunt, and crawled cautiously towards him until near enough to satisfy their curiosity. He was digging roots and feeding upon them. As nearly as they could judge from appearance, he was about forty or forty-five years of age, of strong and bony frame; his hair was so long as to fall in snarls over his bronzed and dirty shoulders; his beard, like his hair, long and shaggy, and his entire body covered with a growth of hair which could not have been less than an inch long. His complexion must have been originally light, as his hair was of a lightish brown. After viewing him a short time they concluded to retreat After going a few steps the monster sprung up and stared intently at them. Becoming frightened he sprang into the Platte, crossed over to Little Island, and disappeared in its thick underbrush.

Considerable interest, not unmingled with painful curiosity, exists in the community over the matter, and it is the purpose of the young men who discovered the man to orgauize a large party and make every effort possible to capture him.

How Sumter Might Have Been Silenced.

In an article on the Confederate defense of Charleston, S. C., in the Philadelphia Times, Gen. G. T. Beauregard says:

"It is pertinent for me, professionally, to remark that had the federal naval attack on Fort Sumter of the 6th of April, 1863, been made at night, while the fleet could have easily approached near enough to see the fort—a large, lofty object covering several acres—the monitors, which were relatively so small and low on the water, could not have been seen from the fort. It would have been impossible, therefore, for the latter to have returned with any accuracy the fire of the fleet, and this plan of attack could have been repeated every night until the walls of the fort should have crumbled under the enormous missiles which made holes two and a half feet deep in the walls, and shattered the latter in an alarming manner. I could not then have repaired during the day the damages of the night, and I am confident now, as I was then, that Fort Sumter, if thus attacked, must have been disabled and silenced in a few days. Such a result at that time would have been necessarily followed by the evacuation of Morris' and Sullivan's Islands and soon after of Charleston itself, for I had not yet had time to complete and arm the system of works, including James Island and the inner harbor, which enabled us six months later to bid defiance to Admiral Dahlgren's powerful fleet and Gilmore's strong land forces."

Colored Men in the Army.

The following is the bill introduced by request, by General Banning to-day, in regard to the enlistment of colored persons in the army:

Be it enacted, etc., that hereafter the word colored shall not be used in designating any soldier of the United States Army; that the colored citizen shall be entitled to all the privileges and rights of any citizen to enlist in any arm of the United States Army, and no distinction shall hereafter be made in the assignment of the soldiers on account of color, or descent; that all arms of the service, engineers, artillery, cavalry, infantry, signal corps, irrespective of color, shall be open to him.

SEC. 2. That the President is also authorized to fill the 9th and 10th Cavalry and the 24th and 25th Infantry with enlisted men, without reference to or distinction of color. That he shall use his discretion in keeping these regiments above the minimum strength required by law, assigning men from the general recruiting and general mounted service as they are required by the regiments, without regard to color, and nothing in the above act shall be so construed that the 9th and 10th Cavalry, the 24th and 25th Infantry, are not a part of the United States Army.

An Open Letter to the Public.

NEW YORK, October 1, 1877.

I have devoted twenty years of patient study to the Liver and its relations to the human body, in search of a remedy which would restore it, when diseased, to its normal condition. The result of that labor has been the production of

TUTT'S LIVER PILLS.

Their popularity has become so extended and the demand so great as to induce unscrupulous parties to counterfeit them, thereby robbing me of the reward, and the afflicted of their virtues.

To Caution the Public and protect them from vile impositions, have adopted a new label, which bears my trade-mark and notice of its entry in the Office of the Librarian of Congress, also my signature, thus;

W. H. Tutt M. D.

☞ TO COUNTERFEIT THIS IS FORGERY. ☜

Before purchasing, examine the label closely.

THE GENUINE TUTT'S PILLS

exert a peculiar influence on the system. Their action is prompt, and their good effects are felt in a few hours. A quarter of a century of the study of the Liver has demonstrated that it exerts a greater influence over the system than any other organ of the body, and when diseased the entire organism is deranged. It is specially for the healing of this vital organ that I have spent so many years of toil, and having found the remedy, which has proved the greatest boon ever furnished the afflicted, shall they be deprived of its benefits, and a vile imitation imposed upon them?

Let the honest people of America see to it that they are not defrauded. Scrutinize the label closely, see that it bears all the marks above mentioned, and buy the medicine only from respectable dealers. It can be found everywhere. Very respectfully,

W. H. TUTT.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT. NEW YORK.

I am only billious, says the debilitated victim of sick headache, pain in the right side, constriction of the bowels, and hypochondria. Are these trifles, then? No; unchecked they lead to mental disease. And yet as surely as dawn dispels the darkness, Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient will remove them. Try it.

DAILY NEWS.

FRIDAY.....NOVEMBER 9, 1877

THE WEEKLY NEWS is the best weekly paper published in North Carolina. It is only ONE DOLLAR per year, postage paid, contains 32 columns of plain printed news from every section of the country, and important advertisements. Always Cash.

O Ye Tears.

If you go over desert and mountain,
Far into the country of sorrow,
To-day, and to-night and to-morrow,
And may be for months and and for years,
You shall come with a heart that is bursting
For trouble, and toiling, and thirsting,
You shall certainly come to the fountain
At length—to the Fountain of Tears.

Very peaceful the place is, and solely
For piteous lamenting and sighing,
And those who come living or dying,
Alike from their hopes and their fears;
Full of cypress-like shadows the place is,
And statues that cover their faces;
But out of the gloom springs the holy
And beautiful Fountain of Tears.

And it flows and it flows with a motion
So gentle, and lovely, and listless,
And murmurs a tune so resistless,
To him who hath suffered and bears,
You shall surely, without a word spoken,
Kneel down there and know your heart broken,
And yield to the long-curbed emotion
That day by the Fountain of Tears
—Arthur O Shaugnessy.

NEWS NOTES.

The palmetto has been considered one of the most worthless trees of Florida. A gentleman from Volusia now comes forward with a display of brushes mattings and ropes made from the inner bark, and contemplate the building of a manufactory at Volusia.

His Holiness has taken pity on a youth named Chiassi, the son of a rich Roman baker, who went out of his mind through love for the daughter of Marquis Neroni. An alliance between a noble Italian family and a plebeian being quite of the question, Pio Nono has raised the baker to the dignity of a count.

The Supreme Court of Minnesota has affirmed the validity of the law of 1876 prohibiting the sale of liquor in districts where the people vote that it shall not be sold. In such districts licenses that have been granted and have not expired are revoked the moment the electors declare by their votes that the sale of whisky shall cease.

The Philadelphia North American says a party of Philadelphia capitalists are contemplating the construction of a railroad from a point on the Amazon river, about 300 miles from its mouth, to the city of Bara, in Bolivia, a distance of 185 miles. The idea is for the development of the Philadelphia and South America trade.

Hawkeye: The Hayes cocktail has made its appearance at the bars. It is founded on correct and reform political principles. You pay the barkeeper and order your cocktail. The barkeeper mixes a stiff one, pockets your quarter, hands the c. t. to a tramp standing outside the door, and as he receives back the emptied glass, tells the tramp to hand you the lemon peel when he gets through chewing it.

Gov. Vazzant, of Rhode Island, has issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation, which is one of the briefest on record: "I appoint Thursday, the 29th inst., as Thanksgiving-day, and request the people of the State to assemble in their houses for public worship and return thanks to God for His tender mercies and loving kindness; and may those who are blessed with abundance give liberally to the poor."

The Khedive of Egypt has the first choice of all the slaves that still are sold freely in his dominions, and has no preference for any particular hue, from Circassian to Nubian. The war has ruined the slave trade this year, and $800 Circassians were sold at $200, and pretty Somali girls at $60, at the great Tanta fair, their owners preferring to realize on them at any price rather than to hold them for future delivery at a possible advance.

The last sensational suicide in Europe is that of Marie Prieur, a pretty French singer of twenty-five, who ran away from her home at Toulouse with Count Huguo Lamberg, an Austrian cavalry officer. She had acquired a competency and retired from the stage, young as she was; then she was smitten with a passion that the Count failed to reciprocate fully, and when he left her placed his portrait over her heart and with a revolver bullet pierced both.

The wedding dress of Maria de las Mercedes, future Queen of Spain, has already been ordered, and the feminine portion of the world will doubtless call it beautiful. It is to be of white satin, entirely covered with Alencon point lace, on which will be worked the arms of all the realms into which Spain was formerly divided. This recalls the dress of Queen Adelaide, of England, which was a pretty piece of imagination—it was embroidered with flowers, the initials of which formed her name.

In reference to the war that is being waged by an active lobby on the confirmation of Mr. John Welsh for the English mission "a name," says the Philadelphia Times, "that has been stainless for three-score and ten years and is now the target for dark hints about revenue frauds," that paper asks, "is no reputation safe from the desperate political leaders of Pennsylvania when it crosses their political path." They are a pretty hard set, but "dogs may bay at the moon" and the moon be tolerably safe notwithstanding.

Grant vs. Hayes.

In its comments upon Mr. Garrison's late foolish letter, the Philadelphia Enquirer, a republican journal, says that "Mr. Lincoln was quite as good a republican as Gen. Grant—a better one, most people will think—and he clearly indicated, immediately before his death, that his policy in connection with the States of the Confederacy was to be one of reconciliation, and had he been permitted to carry it out it would without doubt have been found to be as nearly similar to that of President Hayes as one thing can be like another." The Inquirer proceeds to declare that "the policy of President Grant was one of mere political expediency, unrelieved by a single gleam of true statesmanship or justice;" that it "was wrong upon any and every principle of free government, and it was not only wrong because it was unconstitutional and unjust, but wrong because it was not even successful in accomplishing the object it was used to accomplish, viz., protection to the colored population." If it had lasted, continues the Inquirer, it "would have been the cause of a color war which could have had no other termination than the extinction of the Southern blacks." The policy of President Hayes changed all this, and its wisdom is proved by its results.

Newbern Nutshell: On Sunday night, on the excursion train from this city passing Clark's brick yard, a colored man named Sam Hardy attempted to jump off the train and was thrown violently upon the cross-ties, receiving severe wounds on the head and bad bruises on his body. He was taken to his home, five miles from Newbern, and on yesterday it was reported he was dying.

Its Premium at Roanoke & Tar River Agricultural Society, 1875. The Gold Medal, over all other Competitors, at the North Carolina State Fair, in 1876.

It is the most perfect and economical in use. The Boiler is of new design, being vertical, yet all the heating surface is entirely covered with water, thus preventing the fire from destroying the tubes as is the case, in a few years, in all upright tubular boilers in which the fire passes through the tubes above the water line, soon destroying the exposed end of the tubes causing them to leak.

——Abstract of taxes were received yesterday at the Auditor's office from the Register of Deeds for Macon county.

——The State treasurer issued drummer's licenses yesterday to Stevenson, Rodgers & Co., and Weiller, Bro. & Co., of Baltimore.

——Clerk Bunting sent to the Auditor's office yesterday a certified bond given by Sheriff Nowell, according to the recent instruction from the Auditor.

——The Governor yesterday commissioned Will. H. Davis as county commissioner for the county of Pasquotank, and Capt. Major Everton as commissioner of wrecks for the second district of Currituck.

——Rain! Rain! yesterday the rain came down all day and to a late hour in the night; sometimes in perfect floods. Everything looked droopy from the chickens, that stood sleepily by the yard fences to the dry goods clerks that passed the hours in leaning against the door posts.

The City Lights.

As a matter of fact for the past three months, on all the dark, very dark and stormy nights—there has been no lamps lighted. But a friend at our elbow suggests that it would be a very inhuman person who would expect a lamp lighter to leave home on such stormy, rainy nights as we have frequently had of late when we have had no lamps lighted. And yet again we hear that the tax payers threaten an indignation meeting if something is not done. It is very unpleasant to say the least of it. Simply let our City fathers acknowledge the corn, that they were egregiously humbugged in the Evers' abortion; "fess up" and quit this farce. Let them say to the citizens, if such is the case, we can't afford to light the streets, and let the lamp lighters pay cease. But this farce should cease, the citizens are tired of it and we are tired of writing about it. Gentlemen of the Board of Aldermen, we submit the case; we are done, light or no light. We have been importuned time and again to "stir up" the authorities on the subject; we have not said a hundreath part of what many good citizens want us to say, but we will say no more.

A Sagacious Dog.

Trusty saw the light of this world at Covington Georgia in 1870. He was one of the wonderful dogs of the Scotch terrier breed, and learned many wonderful tricks. In 1874 Mr. J. C. Cook, moved from Covington, to Ringwood, N. C., bringing with him, his pet—Trusty. Trusty wandered about for four days when he disappeared. Nothing was heard of him for eight months when a letter was received from Covington, Georgia, saying, that a few days before, Trusty had made his appearance, and was mighty glad to get home. Trusty arived at Ringwood by express. He seemed well satisfied, for a time but Sunday evening last he was missing and no where can he be found. He has probably started on another tour for Georgia. These facts are stated by creditable persons, who know the circumstances.

For the Baptist State Convention.

In order to accommodate quite a number of persons who desire to be present at the Baptist State Convention, on Sunday next 11th inst, Col. A. B. Andrews, superintendent of the N. C. Railroad, will run a special train on that day, leaving Raleigh at 8:30 A. M., Cary, 8:50 A. M., Morrisville 9:10 A. M. reaching Durham at 10 A. M. Returning leave Durham 5 P. M., stopping at all intermediate points and arrive at Raleigh. 6:30 P. M. Fare for the round trip, from Raleigh, $1.00; Carry, 75 cts; Morrisville, 50 cents. A cheap trip and we predict a pleasant one for all who accompany the excursion.

Judge Watts on Locusts.

Ex-Judge Watts delivered an entertaining and really instructive lecture on "Bug-ology" at Halifax Tuesday night. He told his audience, among other things, that what was by us commonly called locusts were not the locusts of the bible. Holding up a specimen, he said "this here red-legged grasshopper, as Gov. Vance calls it, is the fellow that troubled Moses so down in the land of Egypt. He called them locusts and I have often thought that if I had just been there with my bug medicine how I would have slayed them." The Judge is somewhat better versed in "bug-ology" than he is in scripture.

Mayor's Court.

Ephraim Allen was hauled up on a charge of larceny, in stealing plank from Betts & Allen; Ephraim seems joined to his idols, yet the Mayor would not let him alone, but required a bond of him for his appearance at next week's term of the criminal court. But Ephraim couldn't give it and so the Mayor sent him to jail for safe keeping, to be on hand when called for.

Justice C. D. Upchurch's Court.

Henry Pomeroy was up for not providing adequately of his means for the support of his wife. Henry is a very clever colored man and once stood deservedly high in the opinion of the citizens of Raleigh, but he has got into the habit of drinking and spends too much of his earnings for whiskey. He promised to do better and thereupon the Court dismissed the case on payment of costs.

BAPTIST STATE CONVENTION

cond Day.

In consequence of the delay of the freight train last night, by which we had arranged to get full reports of the proceedings of the convention, we are unable to give them this morning, except in a condensed form in a telegraph dispatch from our reporter.

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 8th 1877.

Many additional delegates have arrived to-day, both ministerial and lay, from various parts of the State. After religious exercises in the morning, the reports of the Board of State Missions and also the report on the Women's Missionary Society, were taken up and the discussion on them consumed the day.

The Board of Missions and Board of Education remain, with very little change, as they were before.

During the discussion to-day, able speeches were made by Judge Kerr, Dr. Pritchard, J. D. Huffman, W. H. Pace, S. M. Collis, Dr. Wingate, J. C. Scarborough, F. M. Jordan, J. S. Allen and other delegates. These brethen all evinced a lively interest in and knowledge of the subjects discussed, and the addresses were characterized by a spirit of Christain piety and zeal such as might be looked for from men of deep thought and earnestness in their support of a good cause.

It has been raining all day, which has interferred somewhat with the attendance upon the exercises of the session, nevertheless many braved the weather and came out.

As the freight train is so far behind time as to make my sending a report by it unavailing for your morning issue tomorrow, I will send a full report by mail. B.

Southern Underwriters Association.

The case of Shaw against this company was resumed on Wednesday, after a suspension of several weeks.

Mr. Armistead Jones' testimony was continued, but no new points were elicited.

Mr. Eugene Gray was next examined for the plaintiff. His examination was commenced on Wednesday and concluded yesterday.

In answer to questions, he testified in substance as follows: Was clerk in the office of the association from 15th of April, 1876, to 4th January, 1877, when he was elected secretary and continued in that position until 1st of March, 1877. The statement made of the condition of the company, to be filed with the Secretary of State, was made out by himself and Mr. Carroll, another clerk, from data furnished by the secretary, Mr. Best, and the books in the office. He was not called upon to swear to the statement, as he had not, at that time, been elected Secretary.

In answer to a question whether he had ever had any conversation with Dr. Blacknall in regard to the assets of the company and the statement alluded to, witness stated: "After it became necessary for me to make oath to the statements, I went to see Dr. Blacknall and asked him to show me the securities of the company as he had promised to do before I would be called on to make oath to the statement. I asked him to make an exhibit of them to me, and he put me off; told me to wait till Mr. Swepson returned to town. I went down a second time and again asked him to make an exhibit. He stated that Mr. Swepson had not returned. I then asked him if he (Blacknall) as treasurer did not have these securities in his possession; he told me he had only the mortgages in his possession. I then asked if the other assets had not been absolutely assigned to the company. He told me they "sorter had and sorter hadn't." (That was the expression he used.) I then left him and returned to the office of the company, and the next day went down and resigned my position as secretary. I resigned on account of what I have stated and my dissatisfaction at the delay of the exhibit of securities as above. Witness never saw the mortgages; was not aware whether Swepson had returned before he resigned—never swore to the statement. Mr. J. R. H. Carmer succeeded him; he left him in charge of the office; left the books, &c., in the office; left the office in charge of Mr. Carmer and Mr. Best, the president. The books left were the policy register, record of policies, ledger, day book, cash book and secretary's receipt book, and blanks and other papers for the transaction of insurance business. There was a letter file in the office, and policies returned for cancellation were placed in the desk.

Witness saw the stock book but once, that was in the office of the company. Witness then made statements in answer to questions, as to the manner of keeping the books, cash accounts, &c., and the manner of receiving and paying out money. The company began to fail in paying claims against it about the last of 1876, or beginning of 1877.

Here the counsel for defendant objected to any further examination of witnesses unless the evidence be for the purpose of showing the existence of the debt in favor of Shaw; and further, that the policy to Shaw having been issued in Pennsylvania, and the evidence showing that the laws of that State forbid, (the defendant not having complied with the laws regarding insurance companies,) the defendant doing business in that State, that therefore the contract is void, and the plaintiff cannot recover.

This question will be argued before the court on meeting this morning at 10 o'clock.

(NOTE.—Mr. Gray's evidence was begun on Wednesday and concluded yesterday. Mr. Carmer will be put on the stand to-day, if the objection of defendant's counsel is not sustained).

To Prepare Oysters.

Put on, say a pint of oysters to stew; when they get in a good way of cooking put in the usual quantity of butter. Then take finely pounded crackers in a seive and sift into the oysters enough of this cracker meal to nearly cover them over. Then pour into the pan half a pint of sherry wine, and in about a minute after, pour out the oysters into a deep dish or bowl and they will be found good enough for anybody to eat. We charge a dish for this receipt.

Cotton.

The receipts yesterday were hardly up to an average, the day being rather unpropitious. The feeling was a little better and there was a slight advance on good grades, the market closing at 10 1-16 to 10¼.

Convicts for the Penitentiary.

J. T. Somers, sheriff of Wilkes county, brought two prisoners to the penitentiary yesterday, Jasurus Clark for manslaughter, ten years, and Noah Spinkle, for larceny, ten years.

L. R. Wyatt,

(Successor to Rand & Wyatt,) will continue the wholesale and retail grocery and cotton business at the old stand, where he will be pleased to serve customers and friends of the late firm with First Class Flour, Bacon, Lard, Sugar, Coffe, Molasses, Salt, Bagging and Ties &c., at prices to suit.

Consignments of Cotton, Flour &c., solicited for storage and sale which will have prompt attention in sales and returns. *

One of Billy's Electioneering Tricks.

During the State canvass last fall, while the candidates for Lieutenant Governor were making the tour of the extreme western counties, Blow-your-horn-Billy made one of his short cuts on his opponent which was counteracted so effectually as not to "tell" very materially in his favor, in the long run.

Dr. Love, now State Auditor, joined the gubernatorial candidates at Waynesville and went with them through the transmontaine counties. At Murphy, in Cherokee county, where the Georgia & North Carolina Railroad terminates, the whole county, without regard to party, except a few of the faithful who wanted office, was down on Billy on accounty of his expressions and action towards the railroads in the west. After the speaking and Mr. Jarvis had gone on towards Webster to spend the night with a friend, Billy who stayed behind went to the railroad office and subscribed $200 to the stock of the Ga. and N. C. Railroad and got a few leading Republicans to spread the fact throughout the town as an evidence of his being a friend to the road. "O" said they, "he cannot be an enemy to our road, for he has actually taken stock in it."

Dr. Love who also remained behind went immediately and subscribed $250 in the name of Mr. Jarvis, and paid down the first installment, telling the people at the same time, he had no idea that Billy was in earnest in his subscription and would probably never pay it; that it was only one of his electioneering tricks.

The matter has turned out, we learn, as the Doctor prophesied. Billy has never paid a second instalment, nor has he paid any attention to the calls made on him for it. Gen. Gorman, we understand, who had a claim against the company, got an order on Billy for the amount of his subscription, but he could get nothing on it and had to send it back.

Mr. Jarvis's stock has been conveyed to Dr. Love who has met all the assessments on it, and considers it a good investment. We tell the tale as 'twas told to us, without vouching for every particular feature, but state that we had it on first rate authority and believe it true. It is very much like Billy.

I found Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup to be a most effectual remedy, and feel sure that the most stubborn cough and cold will yield to its healing influence.—F. S. Price, New Orleans, Aug. 6, 1875.

There is Danger Ahead

When those usually active little organs, the kidneys, are neglectful of their duties and grow sluggish. Fatty degeneration, Bright's disease, diabetes, and other dangerous maladies, are the result of neglect to remedy this inactivity by medicinal means. When the all important functions of the kidneys are imperfectly discharged, those organs need stimulating, and the best possible agent for that purpose—since it performs its office without exciting them—is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which in combination with its tonic and cathartic properties, possesse valuable qualities as a diuretic. Both kidneys and bladder are strengthened by it, and the vigor which it imparts to them, and the gentle but effectual impulse which it gives to their operations, is the best possible guaranty against their becoming diseased. The bitters are invaluable in other respects as well as the above, since they remedy general debility, uterine troubles, chills and fever, dyspepsia, constipation, gout, rheumatism, and other ailments.
